Whether it be a phone call, email or a knock on your door, we all find ourself being asked to purchase something from unsolicited vendors.

In the JVPD weekly report last week, a person reported being scammed for over $5,000. Here are some tips to avoid getting "taken in" by solicitors/scam artists.

- Carefully review the materials these solicitors provide before responding.
- Respond to the solicitors only if you believe their service would be to your advantage.
- Do not divulge personal or financial information unless you have an established business relationship with the requestor, or are certain the representative is trustworthy.
- Before clicking on a link in an unsolicited email, or providing personal information to any requestor, consider how it may be used or misused, and kept confidential rather than sold.
- As with any unsolicited phone calls, emails, or in-person contact, use caution providing information and/or access to your home.

Interested in joining our fabulous group of volunteers? There are many ways you can support other members, things like light home repair, technology help, transportation, help with event setup, stuffing envelopes, making phone calls, planning events and many more.

If you would like to volunteer directly with our members JVSO requires a short, 1-hour training session. The next one scheduled will be Thursday, May 5 at 7 PM at the Civic Center. If you would like to get involved in assisting fellow members, please let Sandy Steffens know you will be attending via email: jvsovolunteers@gmail.com
