Need small jobs done around your house? There are some businesses that offer for hire, odd job support around your home. Some of our members have used these resources.

Fired Up Assemblers

Did you buy furniture or something that came in many pieces. Fired Up Assemblers is a group of firefighters that work in their spare time. They will put the item together (like outdoor shed, exercise equipment, patio furniture, bookshelf...) for a fee. www.firedupassemblers.com

ToDoolie

Do you have an odd job at your house that does not need a skilled professional, like extra yardwork, cleaning the garage, moving heavy items... ToDoolie charges $25/hour for college students to do the work. <https://todoolie.com>

In addition to small jobs, if you are in need of a service professional, JVSO website has recommendations from members. Keep in mind these individuals have not been vetted, only recommended by other members. Do you have someone to recommend, send the information to jvsorequest@gmail.com.

A robocall is a call that delivers pre-recorded messages through auto-dialing software. If you answer your phone and hear a recorded message instead of a real person, you are listening to a robocall. Some robocalls provide useful information, such as appointment reminders or flight cancellations. Most of them are trying to sell you something, and many are scams. If you receive a spam robocall, the best thing to do is not answer. If you answer the call, your number is considered 'good' by the scammers. They will try again because they know this person is a potential victim of fraud. The less you answer, the fewer robocalls you will receive.

Recently, spoofing calls have become common. Spoof callers change the name or number displayed on caller ID to mimic a real company, person's name or local area code. .

Minimize the risk by following these tips:

1. When answering wait a few seconds before saying hello. If it is a real person, they will say something, if it is a robocall it will usually hang up if no one says anything.
  2. If they say your name do not say "Yes" ask who is calling. Your voice may be recorded to use later.
  3. Hang up as soon as you realize it's a robocall.
  4. Avoid following the caller's instructions/
  5. Exercise caution when answering these calls.
